AIRCRAFT ATTACKS MAY MARK WAR OPENING

TURKS HURRYING SHOCK TROOPS TO DEAD LINE OF THE NEUTRAL ZONE

Moslems are Assembling in Great Strength According to Reports Filtering Back, But British Troops, Backed by Guns, Ready for Hostilities

British Strength Has Been Placed at Three Sectors, Chanak Key City at Narrowest Point of Dardanelles, Ismid Peninsula and at Constantinople

By United Press

Constantinople, Sept. 22.—Aircraft attacks on a large scale probably will mark the outbreak of actual hostilities between the British and Turks.

With the Turks reported bringing up heavy artillery and hurrying their shock troops from Smyrna toward the new front, the British have assembled powerful aircraft squadrons behind their lines, and are ready to loose them the minute Mustapha Kemal's forces cross the dead line—the border of the neutral zone—the violation of which means war.

Tanks, armored cars and other fighting machines developed in the world war, are being rushed to the Near East.

The Moslems are assembling in great strength along the dead line, according to reports filtering back, but the British troops, backed by the guns, are ready for any hostilities.

The British strength has been placed in three sectors, as follows:

1. The Chanak, the key city at the narrowest point of the Dardanelles. The Turks must take this position before they can force a crossing of the straits. A strong British detachment is there, and behind them lies a long line of destroyers ready to give the approaching Turks the artillery.

2. At the Ismid peninsula. This peninsula is about 30 miles wide, and is the only means of approach by land to the Bosphorus and Constantinople. The British have entrenched themselves at many strategic points in the hills which cover the peninsula. The heavy guns of the warships protecting their flanks can drop huge shells anywhere within 20 miles.

3. At Constantinople. Here the British are prepared to put down any uprising by use of machine guns. A strong detachment of troops are being kept in the city to cope with any trouble behind the lines.

With the British and Turks already facing each other in the Dardanelles war zone, Jugo-Slavia concentrated her forces on the Bulgarian frontier, according to word received here.

The Jugo-Slavia concentration on the border, it was stated, was prompted by fear that the Russian Soviet army would march through Bulgaria to the aid of Mustapha Kemal, leader of the Turkish nationalist army, and invade the Balkan states, which the Turks desire to reconquer.

Greek and Turkish subjects in Constantinople and cities of the neutral zone, were mobilized by authorities today to prevent clashes.

Trying to Agree on Turkish Policy

Paris, Sept. 22.—France and Britain made an eleventh hour attempt today to avert hostilities in the Near East by getting together on the Turkish policy.

With war clouds again hanging low over the Dardanelles, Premier Poincare of France and Foreign Minister Curzon of Britain met here. When they met, France and Britain were still far apart on their attitude toward the Turks. France is holding out that the Turks must be dealt with gently, and their claims to Thrace and the Dardanelles settled. Britain was standing firm in its resolve not to yield to the Turkish demands until a peace conference is held.

The British troops were remaining alone at Chanak on the banks of the Dardanelles, facing the assembling Turkish hosts.

The British cabinet met today and gave full backing to Poincare's attitude that the Near Eastern crisis must be settled diplomatically and not by force of arms. It was decided France would not rescind from their previous Near East policy.

Curzon informed Poincare that the British government had carefully considered the whole situation, and had decided it would be out of the question to yield to the Turks.

"FIND THE WOMAN" POLICE THINK WILL SOLVE THE MYSTERY

THE ORDER TODAY IN INVESTIGATION OF MURDER OF RECTOR AND CHOIR LEADER

"JEALOUS WOMAN," REPORTED GOSSIPING, MAY SUPPLY MISSING CLUES

(By United Press.)

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 22—"Find the woman."

This was the order today in the investigation of the murder of the Rev. Edward Hall, rector of the fashionable church of St John the Evangelist, and his choir leader, Mrs. Elinor Mills.

Investigators devoted their efforts to find the "jealous woman" who it is reported gossiped with church members of the relations between the Rev. Hall and Mrs. James Mills. This woman is said to have informed Mills that he should keep close watch on his wife. If she can be found, police believe they will have located the woman who wrote love notes to Hall and who might have been so maddened by jealousy that she would commit the murder.

Mills was summoned by detectives today to be questioned as to the identity of the woman who told him of the gossip.

GAVEL FELL THIS AFTERNOON ON THE SECOND SESSION OF 67TH CONGRESS

(By United Press)

Washington, Sept. 22.—The gavel falls this afternoon on the second session of the 67th congress.

Unless there is a last minute hitch, adjournment will come shortly before 2 o'clock.

Many senators and congressmen already have left for their homes. Those who remained as a clean-up squad will go tonight, and by tomorrow the wheels of the nation's law makers will be at a dead stop after running continuously for nearly 18 monhts.

The present congress has been at work almost continuously since the Harding administration took hold on March 4, 1921.

Matters Still Before Congress

The position of the government on the nitrate project at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, and the anti-lynching bill and the bill providing a $15,000,000 loan to Liberia, are the principal pending matters of importance upon which congress had not finally acted today.

The latter two are before the senate today, but with only meagre chances of passing.

It has been a "farmers congress" due largely to action of the powerful farm bloc. Analysis showed this congress has far outstripped any of its predecessors in the amount of legislation relating to farmers.

Federal Fuel Distributor

Washington, Sept. 22—Appointment of Conrad E. Spens, vice president in charge of traffic of the Chicago,Burlington & Quincy railroad, as federal fuel distributor, supporting the anti-fuel profiteering bill, was made at the White House today.

Spens has been granted a furlough in the railroad to undertake his work He was chief of the transportation division of the food administration during the war.

Spens succeeds H. B. Spencer, who has been acting as voluntary distributor since the temporary organization was set up two weeks ago.

Congress Eventually Adjourns at 2:03 P. M.

Washington, Sept. 22—Congress adjourned sine die at 2:03 today.

The adjournment was marked in the house by uproarious display among members who disported themselves like that of care-free boys coming out of school, and in the senate by a successful filibuster against the $25,000,000 Liberian loan and the Dyer anti-lynching bill. With practically all house members and one-third of the senate seeking re-election, the members hurried away from Washington to begin campaigning.

Those who had no campaign, began a belated vacation.

President Harding went to the capitol half an hour before adjournment, and signed the $2,000,000 deficiency bill, the last piece of legislation disposed of by the two houses.

President Signs Two Bills

Washington, Sept. 22—The fuel anti-profiteering bill and the Borah bill providing for complete investigation of the coal industry were signed by President Harding today.

The Cummins-Winslow anti-profiteering measures giving Interstate Commerce Commission sweeping powers to halt high prices by governing the allotment of coal cars.

The Bar act authorizing appointment of a fact finding commission which will probe both the anthracite and bituminous industries, and make recommendations to congress with a view of preventing repetition of the 1922 strike

These bills were suggested to congress by President Harding in his industrial message during the height of the rail and coal strikes.

President Signs Rivers and Harbors Bill

Washington, Sept. 22—President Harding today signed the Rivers and Harbors bill carrying an authorization for appropriating approximately $50,000,000 for improvement work in the United States.

He struck out provisions of the bill providing for Cape Cod and Dismal Swamps canals.

American Citizenship Rights for Women

Washington, Sept. 22—President Harding gave his approval to the bill which provides American citizenship rights for women.

Under the provisions of this law, the American woman can marry a foreigner and retain her citizenship in this country.

Formerly the citizenship of women followed that of her husband. The bill was endorsed by eight women's organizations.

LIFE IN THE QUIET NORTHERN WOODS TAKES ON A MUCH DIFFERENT PERSPECTIVE

Editors are praising the beauty of Minnesota woods and lakes as found in the Brainerd Lake Region.

Here is what Carl C. Proper, editor of the "People's Popular Monthly" of Des Moines, Iowa, wrote while in the region.

Be Happy Abaut Little Things

This editorial page for September is being written during a two weeks' vacation, on the porch of the Editor's log cabin, sixty feet above beautiful Woman Lake in north central Minnesota. In this environment, in order to write editorials, it is necessary to sit with one's back to the lake. Otherwise one does nothing but watch the rippling water and dream away the time listening to the gentle swish of the waves against the shore, just down the high bank below the pines.

In the quiet of these northern woods, where even the whistle of the distant railway engine does not penetrate life takes on a different perspective. Coal strikes, railway wrecks, political squabbles and the inevitable big headlines in the daily papers about some movie queen's scandalous "doings," seem to lose their force, and the common everyday realities of life take on import ance. It is in such surroundings, away from the noise and hurry of the city, that people live as they should live.

It doesn't take a seven course dinner and an evening of grand opera to bring happiness out in the woods and fields where farm folks live and where the people of the smaller towns are gathered together to serve their rural neighbors. In such natural conditions of living a college trained woman can be happy because a timely rain has saved her garden. Father is happy because of a half hour in which to read his favorite magazine. The young folks are satisfied with a simple evening party with little fuss about dress and with the phonograph for an orchestra.

After all, no matter where we live, it is the little things which make for real happiness. A mansion filled with beautiful furniture never yet brought lasting pleasure. Keeping just a little ahead of the Jones family doesn't satisfy anyone. A day's work well done, a word of appreciation to someone else, a willingness to live simply and plainly without show or pretense; these things bring real happiness. Be satisfied to live as God intended his children to live, so as to be loved by your fellow men because of the little things you have done, and you will be happy and approach true greatness.

FAR EASTERN CONFERENCE BETWEEN RUSSIA AND JAPAN IS FRUITLESS ONE

(By United Press.)

Tokio, Sept. 22—Reports reaching here indicated serious probability of the Chang Chung conference between Russia and Japan over Far Eastern questions and Russian recognition by Japan breaking up without accomplishing definite results.

Japan, it was learned, has given Russia to understand in a positive manner that Russia's demand for the evacuation of the Saghalien will not be granted, at least until indemnity for the Nickolaizek massacre of more than a year ago is arranged.

The conference, it is believed, may break up on that point.

RESULTS FROM DECISION TODAY OF THE STATE SUPREME COURT

ALSO AFFECTS METHOD OF PROCEDURE IN CRIMINAL PROSECUTIONS

St. Paul, Sept. 22—Complete revision of the grand jury system in Minnesota and the method of procedure in criminal prosecutions, resulted today from a decision of the state supreme court.

The decision upheld the constitutionality of the 1921 state law prohbiting transportation of liquor in a city where ordinances were passed on the law.

Criminal offenses may be prosecuted on information filed by county attorneys without consideration of the evidence by the grand jury The court upheld the law that a sentence carrying more than ten years must be taken up by the grand jury, according to the dceision.

The decision will effect ninety per cent of the criminal cases in the state, according to the attorney general's office.

The great air boat was expected to jump to Yuma with a brief stop at Nogales, Arizona.

125 Federal Agents

Washington, Sept. 22—Bootleggers have killed 125 prohibition enforcement agents since the war on rum smugglers began, the prohibition commissioner, Haynes, estimated today.

Twenty-four were federal agents, and the remainder of those killed were state, county and municipal officers.

Less than fifty bootleggers have been killed, Haynes said, during the same time.

Those wounded among the enforcement agents numbered more than 3,500, he asserted.

Haynes ohld lax public conscience to blame for many of the casualties. So long as the public buy from bootleggers, they will be encouraged to engage in the manufacture and sale of whiskey, and resort even to murder to profit.

Texas, with four, leads in the number of federal agents killed.

CRUSADE FOR PEACE BY MASONS ASKED

SUPREME COUNCIL OF NORTHERN JURISDICTION CONFERS 33d DEGREE UPON 140

Cleveland, Sept. 22—A crusade for world peace in co-operation with Masonic jurisdiction of the United States and 20 other supreme councils of Europe, South America and Africa was outlined here by Sovereign Grand Commander Leon M. Abbott in his allocution delivered at the opening of the supreme council of the northern Masonic jurisdiction United States of America. Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite.

A letter from President Harding expressing regret at his inability to be present to receive his 33rd degree was read by Mr. Abbott.

A gift of $25,000 to several hundred former srevice men who are Masons was announced by Commander Abbott and approved by the supreme council.

The supreme council also approved plans of Commander Abbott in establishing 15 four year scholarships in colleges for "deserving sons and daughters of master Masons." The sum of $50,000 was appropriated for this work.

Sault St. Marie, Mich., Sept. 22—Fire which broke out on the submarine chaser 4-19 menaced the Poe docks here yesterday, and resulted in injury to Howard Garnani, Waukegan, Ill., who was severely burned.

The fire was confined to the lower deck, and with the aid of fire extinguishers, it was possible to keep the flames from the 2,400 gallon tank of gasoline.

The subchaser was quickly taken from the lock, and the city fire department summoned. The boat was enroute from Detour to White Fish.

Shopmen's Side of Controversy As Given by Publicity Committee

Seniority THE OBSTACLE

The immediate obstacle in the way of a settlement of the great railroad strike is the question of seniority. When President Harding a few weeks ago let it be known that he had every reason to hope the strike would be over in a few days, he did so after having submitted to B. M. Jewell, representing the shopmen, and T. DeWitt Cuyler, representing the railway executives, what he considered a just, fair, and equitable basis for a settlement.

The President's plan, which was acceptable to Mr. Jewell, and which the President apparently had good reason to believe also was satisfactory to Mr. Cuyler, included in its provisions that the striking employees were to return to work with unimpaired seniority rights.

The representatives of the shopmen ratified Mr. Jewell's acceptance of the President's terms, but the railway executives turned Cuyler down flat. Cuyler, running for cover, had the audacity to charge that the president had changed the plan since he (Cuyler) had approved it, and there was a sharp exchange of words between the White House and Cuyler.

Despite the fact that Herbert Hoover, of the President's Cabinet, appeared before the rail chiefs as a personal representative of President Harding, urging acceptance of the President's terms, it was rejected, and the whole matter left in the air. The President, instead of insisting upon his agreement with Cuyler being carried out, began temporizing with the railway executives, and finally offered a new proposition unacceptable to both the railroads and the shopmen.

Everyone is familiar with the recent futile attempt of the Brotherhood chiefs to mediate the dispute, so that at this writing it looks like a fight to a finish. The railroads have seized upon the seniority question as an excuse to continue this strike, in the hope of breaking the unions. There can be no doubt of the truth of the charge made by the shopmen's representatives that Loree, Atterbury and Co. are carrying out instructions of a small but powerful group of bankers in Wall St. These men know that for shopmen to yield on the question of seniority means a weakening if not a breaking of the unions, and are therefore making much ado about this pledge to the "loyal" men who stuck to their posts and the replacement men they have hired since the strike began.

The truth of the matter is, the rail executives and their subordinates have the same contempt for this class as have the striking shopmen. It is nauseating to those who have had railroad experience to hear the chatter of some of the railway executives about their "loyal" employees. This attitude is assumed for the purpose of camouflaging their real intentions; viz., that of destroying the unions.

As a matter of fact, the railway executives and the replacement men knew when they arrayed themselves against the strikers it meant industrial war. Both sides to a controversy canot win when a battle is fought to a finish; a draw rarely ever takes place. Therefore, the replacement men and the railway executives knew that if the shopmen succeeded in making it impossible for the roads to operate successfully, the penalty the replacement men would have to pay would be to abandon their hope of holding seniority when the strikers returned to the shops.

All this talk about standing by loyal employees is bunk. Is the whole country to suffer for the sake of a few replacement men? Are the farmers and fruit growers agreeable to the railroads being tied up indefinitely for the benefit of men of this stripe? Are the engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors willing to risk their lives on locomotives and trains "repaired" by men who don't know a stay bolt from a coupling pin, or a draw bar from a brakeshoe? Is the traveling public satisfied to travel on trains which are liable to break apart at any moment? All of these conditions, existing now, will continue to grow worse as time goes on.

Reports received from all over the country tell an alarming story concerning the condition of motive power and rolling stock. The fifty locomotive inspectors find it a physical impossibility to inspect even a few of the 70,000 locomotives on the railroads of the United States. They have been deprived of the assistance of shop inspectors, upon whose word they were ofttimes compelled to rely as to the condition of locomotives, so that if the truth could be told it would reveal a state of affairs which would cause the public to demand that the government compel a settlement forthwith.

The railroads of the United States cannot be successfully operated without the aid of the men on strike, and the shopmen will not return unless their seniority rights are guaranteed, nor will they return to work unless all who went out with them are accorded the same tratment. It is somebody's move—the shopmen are ready to accept the Presidents first proposal. Until the railroads agree to do so the strike will continue.

CRUSADE FOR PEACE BY MASONS ASKED

SUPREME COUNCIL OF NORTHERN JURISDICTION CONFERS 33d DEGREE UPON 140

Cleveland, Sept. 22—A crusade for world peace in co-operation with Masonic jurisdiction of the United States and 20 other supreme councils of Europe, South America and Africa was outlined here by Sovereign Grand Commander Leon M. A gift of $25,000 to several hundred former srevice men who are Masons was announced by Commander Abbott and approved by the supreme council.

SUBMARINE CHASER FIRE MENACES DOCKS

(By United Press)

Sault St. Marie, Mich., Sept. 22—Fire which broke out on the submarine chaser 4-19 menaced the Poe docks here yesterday, and resulted in injury to Howard Garnani, Waukegan, Ill., who was severely burned.

The fire was confined to the lower deck, and with the aid of fire extinguishers, it was possible to keep the flames from the 2,400 gallon tank of gasoline.

The subchaser was quickly taken from the lock, and the city fire department summoned. The boat was enroute from Detour to White Fish.

Shopmen's Side of Controversy As Given by Publicity Committee

Seniority THE OBSTACLE

The immediate obstacle in the way of a settlement of the great railroad strike is the question of seniority. When President Harding a few weeks ago let it be known that he had every reason to hope the strike would be over in a few days, he did so after having submitted to B. M. Jewell, representing the shopmen, and T. DeWitt Cuyler, representing the railway executives, what he considered a just, fair, and equitable basis for a settlement.

The President's plan, which was acceptable to Mr. Jewell, and which the President apparently had good reason to believe also was satisfactory to Mr. Cuyler, included in its provisions that the striking employees were to return to work with unimpaired seniority rights.

The representatives of the shopmen ratified Mr. Jewell's acceptance of the President's terms, but the railway executives turned Cuyler down flat. Cuyler, running for cover, had the audacity to charge that the president had changed the plan since he (Cuyler) had approved it, and there was a sharp exchange of words between the White House and Cuyler.

Despite the fact that Herbert Hoover, of the President's Cabinet, appeared before the rail chiefs as a personal representative of President Harding, urging acceptance of the President's terms, it was rejected, and the whole matter left in the air. The President, instead of insisting upon his agreement with Cuyler being carried out, began temporizing with the railway executives, and finally offered a new proposition unacceptable to both the railroads and the shopmen.

Everyone is familiar with the recent futile attempt of the Brotherhood chiefs to mediate the dispute, so that at this writing it looks like a fight to a finish. The railroads have seized upon the seniority question as an excuse to continue this strike, in the hope of breaking the unions. There can be no doubt of the truth of the charge made by the shopmen's representatives that Loree, Atterbury and Co. are carrying out instructions of a small but powerful group of bankers in Wall St. These men know that for shopmen to yield on the question of seniority means a weakening if not a breaking of the unions, and are therefore making much ado about this pledge to the "loyal" men who stuck to their posts and the replacement men they have hired since the strike began.

The truth of the matter is, the rail executives and their subordinates have the same contempt for this class as have the striking shopmen. It is nauseating to those who have had railroad experience to hear the chatter of some of the railway executives about their "loyal" employees. This attitude is assumed for the purpose of camouflaging their real intentions; viz., that of destroying the unions.

As a matter of fact, the railway executives and the replacement men knew when they arrayed themselves against the strikers it meant industrial war. Both sides to a controversy canot win when a battle is fought to a finish; a draw rarely ever takes place. Therefore, the replacement men and the railway executives knew that if the shopmen succeeded in making it impossible for the roads to operate successfully, the penalty the replacement men would have to pay would be to abandon their hope of holding seniority when the strikers returned to the shops.

All this talk about standing by loyal employees is bunk. Is the whole country to suffer for the sake of a few replacement men? Are the farmers and fruit growers agreeable to the railroads being tied up indefinitely for the benefit of men of this stripe? Are the engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors willing to risk their lives on locomotives and trains "repaired" by men who don't know a stay bolt from a coupling pin, or a draw bar from a brakeshoe? Is the traveling public satisfied to travel on trains which are liable to break apart at any moment? All of these conditions, existing now, will continue to grow worse as time goes on.

Reports received from all over the country tell an alarming story concerning the condition of motive power and rolling stock. The fifty locomotive inspectors find it a physical impossibility to inspect even a few of the 70,000 locomotives on the railroads of the United States. They have been deprived of the assistance of shop inspectors, upon whose word they were ofttimes compelled to rely as to the condition of locomotives, so that if the truth could be told it would reveal a state of affairs which would cause the public to demand that the government compel a settlement forthwith.

The railroads of the United States cannot be successfully operated without the aid of the men on strike, and the shopmen will not return unless their seniority rights are guaranteed, nor will they return to work unless all who went out with them are accorded the same tratment. It is somebody's move—the shopmen are ready to accept the Presidents first proposal. Until the railroads agree to do so the strike will continue.

NOTICE

To the Public:

It has occurred several times lately that consumers of water have been found who have tampered with their meters, or have made connections that have permitted water to be used without first passing through the meter. Not only is this a violation of the rules of the department, but it is dishonest. And even if certain conditions existed at the time that may have given then no reason for believing that water was to have been taken without paying for it, it is always difficult later on for the accused to explain it or for the listener to be convinced. The Board does not desire to cause any person any annoyances or have controversies over such a matter, but it will rely on its own conclusions; and every time any evidence of tampering is observed, water or electric current will be shut off without further notice. It will involve annoyances and expense for the consumer, wherefore it is up to the consumers to see to it that nothing is done with or to their meters without promptly notifying the office of the Board if anything is not right. Our employees are competent and can correct any defect or make any additions or changes.

Although this matter is set forth plainly in our book of Rules and Regulations, we take this means of calling your attention again to what we find requires and will receive prompt and the most rigorous enforcement.

SHOPS FILLING WITH MEN, REPORTED

J. P. Anderson, in a statement to the Dispatch, says that fifty additional men have been put to work at the Brainerd shops this morning, completing quite a large force there.

W. H. Strachan, superintendent of the Lake Superior division, stated that he has two hundred additional men in Duluth ready to bring to Brainerd at any time. These men are all union men, a great many being mustered from the striking shopmen of roads running to the Mtsaba Range.

Mr. Strachan states that no men have been hired in the past ten days except former union men, and that a big majority of the men now at work carry union cards.

The Duluth shops are full, according to Mr. Strachan, and are turning out more and better work than was done before the strike. It is planned to follow the same policy with the Brainerd shops, that are now situated to take care of at least six hundred men.

DOG FIGHT RESULTS IN SUIT FOR $3,000

(By United Press.)

Mankato, Sept. 22—William F. Hughes, attorney of this city, has brought suit against Professor J. R. Brandrup, owner of a commercial college, for $3,000 damages alleged to have been sustained when dogs owned by the two parties got into a fight. Mr. Hughes says he tried to separate the dogs but could not and then used his cane in an effort to make them stop fighting. It was at this point, according to the complaint that Professor Brandrup jumped in and struck Hughes a blow which stunned him, also taking his cane from him and throwing it away.

TOURIST CAMPS IN NORTH DAKOTA

Most Elaborate Camps are Located at Valley City, Jamestown, Mandan, Grand Forks

MINOT'S ATTRACTIONS MANY

Offers Free Firewood, Water, Fireplace, Concrete Swimming Pool, Wading Pool, Etc.

Knowing that Brainerd is very much interested at this time in tourists and tourist accomodations, G. A. Beale, formerly with the H. F. Michael Co., and now traveling for a shoe firm, has sent O. J. Bouma of the Chamber of Commerce a copy of the Minot Daily News, with marked articles describing the way that city is caring for her tourists.

One article commences with the statement that North Dakota trails have many good and even luxurious tourist camp sites, and is preparing for many more with the opening of the next summer season. Quoting further, we find some interesting data on what is being done for the traveler, with perhaps a hint on planning our own tourist camp.

"It is interesting to note the equipment that is furnished the tourists by the various towns and cities of the state. They run from the barest toilet facilities and rough cooking grids in a few instances, to elaborate bathing pools, electric stoves and shower baths in many cases. An effort is usually made to have the camp located in the very center of the town, although, this is not always possible, so that a vacant strip of land outside the corporate limits is utilized, but not with the success that a site right in the middle of town gains.

"Perhaps the most elaborate camps to be found in the state are located at Valley City, Jamestown, Mandan, Grand Forks, Devils Lake, Minot and Williston. At Valley City the camp is located on the Cheyenne river, where bathing facilities are to be found. This camp is equipped with shelter and electric stoves.

"At Jamestown, the camp is located at the Fair grounds, a short distance from the business section of the city. Several grids are provided and authorities of the Chamber of Commerce plan shower baths and other improvements for the coming year.

"At Grand Forks and Minot, the camps are located in the city parks, and large bathing pools and bath houses are provided for the exclusive use of tourists, also other conveniences that are very popular with the travelers. Mandan uses the chautauqua park for the camp and in it is found every convenience necessary for the tourist, with the Heart river close at hand for bathing purposes.

"Other camps that are attractively placed are those at Bismarck, Fargo and Lisbon. The Fargo commercial club has under advisement the establishing of a more centrally located camp for next year, and all comforts and conveniences will be installed. The Lisbon park board has given over the largest part of the large city park to camp uses, and there is a fine bathing beach close at hand. Fishing is one of the attractions there, also.

"The tourist trade is worthy of serious attention on the part of every town through which a trail or highway passes, for no one knows what tourist party may be in fact a homeseeker, so it is brought home to the business of our towns and cities more forcibly every week that uniform courtesy and friendliness should be developed to the end that we not only get the tourists to spend their money in our cities, but welcome the prospective homeseeker who may be sojourning with us temporarily, for he may be induced to stay here permanently".

Another article in the same enumerates the attractions for the tourists benefit, in Minot alone, which includes a complete and thoroughly equipped night camp, free firewood, water, fireplace and constant police protection, good shade trees, the largest outdoor concrete swimming pool in the state, a wading pool exclusively for the children, bath house with showers and all modern conveniences, athletic field and playground, tennis and horseshoe courts, canoeing, bathing and fishing on beautiful Mouse River, which flows through the city and past the camp site.

Cards, the size of business cards, are issued in quantities to tourists passing through Minot. On one side of the card, the visitor is urged to stay a few days in the city and enjoy the facilities prepared for him exclusively and to visit the many beauty spots in that locality.

On the reverse of the card is reliable information about highways and trails in and out of Minot, and a great deal of data that is helpful to every traveler in the section through which he is going.

Such preparations for the tourists are bound to make friends for the city tha goes out of its way to cater to that clas of business. Brainerd is arousing herself to the necessity of handling her tourist problem in much the same manner as these North Dakota towns, and with competition growing stronger each season, this city should spare neither time nor money in fitting up camp site accomodations.

Franz R. N. Anderson, Formerly of Brainerd, Writes Dispatch an Interesting Letter

In an interesting letter to the Dispatch, Franz R. N. Anderson, former photographer of Brainerd and former commander of the local American Legion post, writes:

"A couple of days ago I happened to see a story with illustrations about Bullet Joe Bush and thinking you might want it, I secured the mat with said story, etc. and mailed it to you. Hope it doesn't get lost as you might want to put it in the paper. Every one here who is a baseball fan thinks Bush is about the best ever.

(It may be stated that the picture and article of Bush were run as quickly as received and the Chicago Journal's contribution to Bush literature made a hit in Brainerd).

"Well, John, we have been here about six weeks now and I am about to start schooling.

"Mrs. Anderson, Baby Frances and myself have enjoyed a very nice vacation this summer touring around, having visited some of the lakes and camped at some of them, but find they are not in it with the lakes of Crow Wing county and vicinity.

"The Dispatch has followed us on our trip and we have enjoyed keeping abreast of the times.

"Very best regards to Mr. Wieland and remember me to any of the Brainerd folks you might meet and wishing you the best of luck, I am,

Yours truly,

REGISTRATION OF AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

THE alarming increase in the number of fatalities arising through careless handling of the automobile is slowly but surely arousing a public demand that some means be found to safeguard human life from the dangers incident to travel because of the careless handling of cars by irresponsible drivers.

Deaths resulting from automobile accidents are so common that they no longer take a prominent place in the newspapers. In the newspapers of today they are all listed together and the lists read like the casualties of war. Every day the eye meets an announcement of so many killed and so many wounded. The result of this is that, unless people are shocked into realization of the tragedies of every day in Minnesota through some close friend or friends being instantly killed or seriously injured, they are litlte impressed by the commonplace occurrences.

Not all of the deaths by any means result from deliberate carelessness except in so far as carelessness is charged to those who on good roads test their engines to see what speed they can attain. Normally reasonable people become unreasoning when behind the wheel, sometimes with fatal results to themselves or their fellows. And as the horrors of war have not prevented men from rushing to enlist when war clouds lower, so the tragedies of the road will not prevent venturesome drivers from risking their lives and the lives of others through their search for a thrill on the good roads of the state.

The Civic and Commerce association of Minneapolis, spurred to action by the announcement that in all probability there will be 60 fatal automobile accidents in the city this year, has recommended that the state legislature pass a law requiring the registration of all drivers of motor vehicles. Such a law would require certain standards of drivers applying for registration and failure to meet these tests would result in the rejection of the applicant.

An engineer on the railroad is required to meet certain tests before he can take an engine from the roundhouse to make a run, and in the case of the locomotive there is no deviation from the straight track except through the presence of an obstacle or an unsuspected faulty rail. But the driver of the automobile can wind and twist and turn anywhere within the limits of the width of the road. His potentiality in operating a dangerous instrumentality exceeds that of the engineer in the cab of the locomotive and his qualifications may be such that a railroad would not allow him to turn an engine on a turn-table.

Not every one who has the price of an automobile has the ability to drive one, and not all who have cars should be allowed to drive them. And what the railroads demand of engineers for public safety the public is justified in demanding for its own welfare. Thus only those qualified to handle a car in such a way that the public is not endangered should be allowed to take the wheel. The automobile is not an enemy of the race but its servant, and yet it is taking a toll in human life which if exacted by an enemy in war would lead to strong denunciation of the destructive character of war.

The gravity of the present situation must be pointed out, respect for human life must be inculcated, the criminal or careless driver must be penalized, and all drivers ought to be obliged to meet certain requirements before they are allowed the privilege of driving automobiles in public streets or on public roads.

THE ESCH-CUMMINS ACT

THERE is a prevalent tendency to misinterpret this act which is born of deliberate intent or misunderstanding. And there are many who are demanding that it be repealed because they have concluded that it serves the interests of the railroads exclusively and is in all respects a disadvantage to the public. This conclusion resulting from misrepresentation tending to show that the railroads are guaranteed five and one-half to six per cent which the government must make up to them, and from failing to show that there are clauses in the act of benefit to the public, should be recalled until the facts of the matter are thoroughly understood.

In the first place the implication that the government is required to make up to the railroads what they fall below five and one-half to six per cent in their earnings is not correct. For the bill does not make such a guarantee but permits the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix rates which will yield the railroads an income up to the amount specified above. And since the passing of the measure the railroads have not made that amount at any time.

Another error that is frequently made in stating what the bill allows is this: Interest up to five and one-half to six per cent must be paid on the "watered stock." Such is not among the provisions of the measure which places the income to be secured to the railroads by the fixing of rates not on the valuation listed by the railroads but on the government's valuation of the roads.

All that the bill guarantees is that the Interstate Commerce Commission may be allowed to fix rates which will produce for the roads a fixed and limited income on their investments.

But the bill includes other features which work for the good of the nation and serve to control the policy and operation of the railroads. By its provisions the Interstate Commerce Commission may apportion cars to different shippers, give priorities to the movement of essential commodities during emergencies, control the use of terminals by requiring that they be used jointly, prohibit interlocking directorates, take for the government half of the earnings in excess of a reasonable return, and limit or increase the issue of securities.

Possibly some of the provisions of the bill should have reconsideration but propaganda for a repeal of the bill which is based on misrepresentation should not be countenanced. If it cannot be repealed by presenting it as it really is, and its opponents are compelled to resort to misrepresentation in attacking it, it ought to stand before such an attack. What is actually in the bill and not what some say is in it, must be the standard of judgment of the measure.

THE bonus bill lies at rest. In the post mortem inquiry the congressmen stand accused of having failed to determine that it was still-born. All that the president did was to pronounce it dead. But the mourners are grieved that its birth was announced.

TO TAKE NIGHT PICTURES

Of Business Section of City for Reproduction in "Brainerd's Half Century" Book

Ingolf Dillan, who is compiling data for "Brainerd's Half Century" has made arrangements for the taking of a number of pictures of the business section of the city by night. These pictures will be made about 7 o'clock Saturday evening, when the stores are all brilliantly lighted, the street lights aglow and probably the "Welcome" sign on South 6th street illuminated. At this hour, there will be enough daylight left to give good outline to the buildings.

Students of the Brainerd high school are interested in a contest offered by "Brainerd's Half Century", for the best essays relating to early days in our city.

The contest, which closes one week from today, pays prizes as follows: $3 for first prize, $2 for second and $1 for third, honorable mention, 50c each.

Many students have entered the race and are interviewing all old settlers in order to gain first hand information about the Indians, the building of the railroad, the Mississippi river dam, the foundry, saw mills, etc. Also early sports, pastimes and entertainments.

The students are to be commended for entering into this contest with such enthusiasm. They gain thereby a valuable knowledge of the history of Brainerd, experience in interviewing the public, training in research and in organizing the data gathered, as well as proficiency in writing.

The judges of the contest are Carl Zapffe, Miss Islay McColl and Miss Mary Tornstrom.

An interesting collection of pictures of old Brainerd may be viewed in the Sorenson jewelry windows on South Seventh street. Although these pictures include but a small part of Mr. Dillan's collection, he will welcome and take care of additional views of old scenes which can be used in his book.

He also asks that men and women who have been here every thirty years send him their names together with some biographical notes to be included in the Brainerd's Old Settler's roster. This data is requested at the earliest possible date.

1C GAS TAX WOULD YIELD $1,250,000

Figures on Gasoline Consumption And Highway Funds in Minnesota Given in Bulletin

A tax of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline used in motor vehicles in Minnesota during the last year would have produced not to exceed $1,250,000; hence, a 5-cent would have yielded less than is derived from the present schedule of motor vehicle taxes and a 7-cent rate would be necessary to furnish the expected $10,000,000 annual total for the trunk highway fund, following the cut in federal highway aid.

Foregoing figures in a state highway department bulletin are based on gasoline totals from the state oil inspection offices and official motor vehicle registrations and receipts from the secretary of state.

Commenting on sentiment for adding to more fairly apportioned license fees a tax measured by gasoline consumption, the bulletin states that such a levy at 2 cents a gallon would add about $2,500,000 annually to the trunk highway fund and allow tourists from other states to contribute toward the cost of the roads they use in Minnesota. It would take from the average car owner about $7.50 a year; but give him in return the use of $2,500,000 of extra highway improvements the first year, $5,000,000 the second, $7,500,000 the third year, and so on, if put into permanent betterments, or if used for maintenance exclusively would leave the license revenue and federal aid virtually intact for permanent improvement purposes.

Tests show that a car making 15 miles on a gallon of gasoline on unimproved roads will cover from 18 to 20 miles a gallon on good roads, the bulletin adds. Minnesota has registered nearly 350,000 motor vehicles. Average annual travel is estimated at 5,000 miles, making 1,750,000,000 car miles a year in this state. A saving of only a cent a mile on car repairs, tires and gasoline thus would aggregate $17,5000,000 or more than twice the current revenues now turned into the trunk highway funds. It would mean $50 a year to the average car owner. Another way, a saving of 4 cents a gallon on gasoline consumption would total more than $5,500,000 a year in Minnesota. Any conclusion leads to the question of whether Minnesota car owners care to simply divert money from automobile and tire manufacturers and gasoline refiners to road betterments.

The highway department has formulated no recommendations on the subject the bulletin says, but proposes to issue additional figures from time to time in advance of the legislative session that the public may be informed of possible results.

REGISTRATION OF AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

THE alarming increase in the number of fatalities arising through careless handling of the automobile is slowly but surely arousing a public demand that some means be found to safeguard human life from the dangers incident to travel because of the careless handling of cars by irresponsible drivers.

Deaths resulting from automobile accidents are so common that they no longer take a prominent place in the newspapers. In the newspapers of today they are all listed together and the lists read like the casualties of war. Every day the eye meets an announcement of so many killed and so many wounded. The result of this is that, unless people are shocked into realization of the tragedies of every day in Minnesota through some close friend or friends being instantly killed or seriously injured, they are litlte impressed by the commonplace occurrences.

Not all of the deaths by any means result from deliberate carelessness except in so far as carelessness is charged to those who on good roads test their engines to see what speed they can attain. Normally reasonable people become unreasoning when behind the wheel, sometimes with fatal results to themselves or their fellows. And as the horrors of war have not prevented men from rushing to enlist when war clouds lower, so the tragedies of the road will not prevent venturesome drivers from risking their lives and the lives of others through their search for a thrill on the good roads of the state.

The Civic and Commerce association of Minneapolis, spurred to action by the announcement that in all probability there will be 60 fatal automobile accidents in the city this year, has recommended that the state legislature pass a law requiring the registration of all drivers of motor vehicles. Such a law would require certain standards of drivers applying for registration and failure to meet these tests would result in the rejection of the applicant.

An engineer on the railroad is required to meet certain tests before he can take an engine from the roundhouse to make a run, and in the case of the locomotive there is no deviation from the straight track except through the presence of an obstacle or an unsuspected faulty rail. But the driver of the automobile can wind and twist and turn anywhere within the limits of the width of the road. His potentiality in operating a dangerous instrumentality exceeds that of the engineer in the cab of the locomotive and his qualifications may be such that a railroad would not allow him to turn an engine on a turn-table.

Not every one who has the price of an automobile has the ability to drive one, and not all who have cars should be allowed to drive them. And what the railroads demand of engineers for public safety the public is justified in demanding for its own welfare. Thus only those qualified to handle a car in such a way that the public is not endangered should be allowed to take the wheel. The automobile is not an enemy of the race but its servant, and yet it is taking a toll in human life which if exacted by an enemy in war would lead to strong denunciation of the destructive character of war.

The gravity of the present situation must be pointed out, respect for human life must be inculcated, the criminal or careless driver must be penalized, and all drivers ought to be obliged to meet certain requirements before they are allowed the privilege of driving automobiles in public streets or on public roads.

THE ESCH-CUMMINS ACT

THERE is a prevalent tendency to misinterpret this act which is born of deliberate intent or misunderstanding. And there are many who are demanding that it be repealed because they have concluded that it serves the interests of the railroads exclusively and is in all respects a disadvantage to the public. This conclusion resulting from misrepresentation tending to show that the railroads are guaranteed five and one-half to six per cent which the government must make up to them, and from failing to show that there are clauses in the act of benefit to the public, should be recalled until the facts of the matter are thoroughly understood.

In the first place the implication that the government is required to make up to the railroads what they fall below five and one-half to six per cent in their earnings is not correct. For the bill does not make such a guarantee but permits the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix rates which will yield the railroads an income up to the amount specified above. And since the passing of the measure the railroads have not made that amount at any time.

Another error that is frequently made in stating what the bill allows is this: Interest up to five and one-half to six per cent must be paid on the "watered stock." Such is not among the provisions of the measure which places the income to be secured to the railroads by the fixing of rates not on the valuation listed by the railroads but on the government's valuation of the roads.

All that the bill guarantees is that the Interstate Commerce Commission may be allowed to fix rates which will produce for the roads a fixed and limited income on their investments.

But the bill includes other features which work for the good of the nation and serve to control the policy and operation of the railroads. By its provisions the Interstate Commerce Commission may apportion cars to different shippers, give priorities to the movement of essential commodities during emergencies, control the use of terminals by requiring that they be used jointly, prohibit interlocking directorates, take for the government half of the earnings in excess of a reasonable return, and limit or increase the issue of securities.

Possibly some of the provisions of the bill should have reconsideration but propaganda for a repeal of the bill which is based on misrepresentation should not be countenanced. If it cannot be repealed by presenting it as it really is, and its opponents are compelled to resort to misrepresentation in attacking it, it ought to stand before such an attack. What is actually in the bill and not what some say is in it, must be the standard of judgment of the measure.

THE bonus bill lies at rest. In the post mortem inquiry the congressmen stand accused of having failed to determine that it was still-born. All that the president did was to pronounce it dead. But the mourners are grieved that its birth was announced.

GENERATE INTEREST IN BIG DAIRY SHOW

TO TAKE FARMERS TO SHOW

Business Men of Brainerd Are Also Appealed to, See Secretary of Chamber of Commerce

Public sentiment favoring the dairy industry and the attending of the National Dairy Show, which will be held at the State Fair grounds, October 7th to 14th, is gaining impetus in Crow Wing county.

The busines men of Ironton and Crosby, through their local civic associations, have offered the use of their automobiles to take any and all farmers from their vicinity to the dairy show.

This is the right spirit, and their example should be followed by other towns in this section. Any businessmen in Brainerd, who expect to attend this exposition, or who will be in the Twin Cities during the time it is being held, are asked to make provisions for transporting as many of our farmers as have no means of getting down to the fair. List your car and the number of passengers that you can accomodate with the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

A great deal of interest is being aroused in dairy farming in this county, and that interest can be furthered greatly by attending the National Dairy show. Crow Wing county has ideal conditions for making a very wealthy dairy community, and every effort should be used to bring about that result.

Steele county, Minnesota, in a full page advertisement boosting their county fair, make the following statements concerning the dairy industry, which will give an idea of its value to any community:

"Steele county leads all American counties in butter production per square mile, manufacturing this year five million pounds of butter, valued at two and one-half million dollars. This output is greater than the 1920 combined creamery butter production of the entire states of Alabama, Arkansas, Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware, Louisiana, Maine, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Maryland and West Virginia.

"Steele county's bank deposits today average $400 for every man, woman and child in the county, and the population is eighteen thousand, makes it richer than the so-called 'Richest Community on Earth', as St. Louis county, with Hibbing, claimed to be the world's richest village. The deposits for St. Louis county are only $348 per capita.

Eighteen thousand cows, one for each inhabitant, supply the milk for the 23 creameries in Steele county, the manufactured products of which are responsible, to a great extent, for the seven million dollars deposited in the banks of this county.

Steele county is much smaller than Crow Wing. It comprises only twelve townships, but in addition to its dairy products last year, there were approximately 56,000 tons of hay produced, 187,000 bushels of potatoes and 55,000 hogs.

What can be done in these lines in other sections of the state, can be also done in this county with equal or better success. It only needs the spark of enthusiasm to start the right kind of "fireworks", and attending the National Dairy Show will help a great deal.

TWO FIRE CALLS

Department Extinguishes Small Blaze at Stadlbauer Garage, and One in Railroad Yards

The fire department answered a call late Wednesday afternon to the Stadlbauer Garage on West Laurel street, where some waste had ignited and quite a blaze started. It was extinguished before much damage had been done.

The department was called back to the railroad yards to the storehouse used by the bridge and building department in storing supplies. The fire early in the afternoon, which destroyed most of the property, broke out again in some lumber piles, and had gained good headway before the department arrived. A small amount of gasoline in the warehouse, and the paints and oils stored there, made the department quite a little trouble, but it was finally brought under control.

It is reported that this fire started on the roof of the building, and probably was caused from a passing locomotive.

DAVID SAUNDERSON BURIED IN CUYUNA

Remains Accompanied Through Brainerd by Aged Grandfather of the Deceased

WAS KILLED IN LITTLE FALLS

Machinery in Mixing Plant Caught Him, Severed Body, Death Was Instantaneous

The body of David Saunderson, killed near the cement mixing plant operated by McCree, Moos & Co., at Little Falls, arrived in Brainerd on Thursday afternoon, enroute to Cuyuna for interment. D. G. Saunderson, grandfather of the deceased, accompanied the remains.

Saunderson was 21 years of age, and was accidentally killed when a part of the machinery at the mixing plant caught him and threw him under a moving gravel train, severing his body and killing him instantly.

The remains were held at a Little Falls undertakers for several days, before relatives could be found, the Dispatch aiding in the search with an article in Monday's daily.

Saunderson's father died in Crosby about a year ago, it has been learned, and his mother is married again, now Mrs. Roy Byerly, of Weyburn, Sask., Canada. The grandfather mentioned above, and living at Cuyuna, is the only relative in this section of the country.

The dead man was quite well known in Brainerd, having visited in this city only last week, and making a number of purchases at local stores at that time.

IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Verkennes Case Set for Saturday—Tony Skull Arraigned for Nonport—Two Boys Plead Guilty

In municipal court, John Verkennes, charged with breaking the traffic ordinances, pleaded not guilty and his trial is set for Saturday at 10 a. m. Verkennes furnishes a bond for $50 for his appearance in court.

Tony Skuill was arraigned for nonsupport of his two minor children, the complaint being made by Mary Skull. He was given a hearing and the trial continued until October 20.

The trial of Erick Meyers, charged with assault by John A. Thelin, took place Thursday afternoon. Meyers had pleaded not guilty and asked for a jury trial. The jury, after a twenty minute deliberation brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Clifford Greer and Clifford Bartosh, held for the robbery of the Mayhew hardware store in Ironton, were certified to the juvenile court by the municipal judge on the range, on account of the ages of the boys, both being but 17 years old. The juvenile court in turn certified their case, which is out of its jurisdiction, to the Brainerd municipal court, and the boys were given a hearing and bound over to the grand jury on their plea of not guilty.

Thursday afternoon they changed their plea to guilty, and were sentenced by Judge W. S. McClenahan to the St. Cloud reformatory, where they will be taken Saturday.

TO PLAY LITTLE FALLS HIGH

Game to be at Collegeville, Star Minneapolis West High Tackler Joins St. John's Team

Collegeville, Sept. 22—With the opening of the 1922 gridiron season set for Saturday, Sept. 23, Coach Fred L. Sanborn is putting his men through a week of strenuous work in preparation for the season's first tilt. The return to St. John's of Bauman star Minneapolis West High tackler, has brightened the hopes of the college gridders. Bauman is a big man for the line, has speed and experience and is considered a big asset to the eleven.

The Little Falls high school eleven has been booked for the opening battle. This is to be a practice game, but considerable interest is attached to it, chiefly because Coach Sanborn is a new man at the institution and followers of the St. John's athletic teams are anxious to get a glimpse of a sample of his work.

The following week St. John's will play its first conference game, traveling to Midway to engage the Hamline eleven.

The probable line-up for Saturday's game follows: Parnell and McNally, ends; Bauman and Koepp, tackles; Mollers and Nordhus guards, McKeon, center; Kornick and Howell, halves; Ormond, full; Leutner, quarter.

In a letter to the Dispatch, Mr. Sanborn writes: "I am enclosing a corrected schedule of our games which I wish you would publish. I surely would appreciate seeing some of the fellows and wish that they would drive down to some of our big games. The team is rounding out nicely and the spirit is wonderful. Give my regard to the fellows and tell them to root for St. John's".

GENERATE INTEREST IN BIG DAIRY SHOW

TO TAKE FARMERS TO SHOW

Business Men of Brainerd Are Also Appealed to, See Secretary of Chamber of Commerce

Public sentiment favoring the dairy industry and the attending of the National Dairy Show, which will be held at the State Fair grounds, October 7th to 14th, is gaining impetus in Crow Wing county.

The busines men of Ironton and Crosby, through their local civic associations, have offered the use of their automobiles to take any and all farmers from their vicinity to the dairy show.

This is the right spirit, and their example should be followed by other towns in this section. Any business men in Brainerd, who expect to attend this exposition, or who will be in the Twin Cities during the time it is being held, are asked to make provisions for transporting as many of our farmers as have no means of getting down to the fair. List your car and the number of passengers that you can accomodate with the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

A great deal of interest is being aroused in dairy farming in this county, and that interest can be furthered greatly by attending the National Dairy show. Crow Wing county has ideal conditions for making a very wealthy dairy community, and every effort should be used to bring about that result.

Steele county, Minnesota, in a full page advertisement boosting their county fair, make the following statements concerning the dairy industry, which will give an idea of its value to any community:

"Steele county leads all American counties in butter production per square mile, manufacturing this year five million pounds of butter, valued at two and one-half million dollars. This output is greater than the 1920 combined creamery butter production of the entire states of Alabama, Arkansas, Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware, Louisiana, Maine, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Maryland and West Virginia.

"Steele county's bank deposits today average $400 for every man, woman and child in the county, and the population is eighteen thousand, makes it richer than the so-called 'Richest Community on Earth', as St. Louis county, with Hibbing, claimed to be the world's richest village. The deposits for St. Louis county are only $348 per capita.

Eighteen thousand cows, one for each inhabitant, supply the milk for the 23 creameries in Steele county, the manufactured products of which are responsible, to a great extent, for the seven million dollars deposited in the banks of this county.

Steele county is much smaller than Crow Wing. It comprises only twelve townships, but in addition to its dairy products last year, there were approximately 56,000 tons of hay produced, 187,000 bushels of potatoes and 55,000 hogs.

What can be done in these lines in other sections of the state, can be also done in this county with equal or better success. It only needs the spark of enthusiasm to start the right kind of "fireworks", and attending the National Dairy Show will help a great deal.

TWO FIRE CALLS

The fire department answered a call late Wednesday afternon to the Stadlbauer Garage on West Laurel street, where some waste had ignited and quite a blaze started. It was extinguished before much damage had been done.

The department was called back to the railroad yards to the storehouse used by the bridge and building department in storing supplies. The fire early in the afternoon, which destroyed most of the property, broke out again in some lumber piles, and had gained good headway before the department arrived. A small amount of gasoline in the warehouse, and the paints and oils stored there, made the department quite a little trouble, but it was finally brought under control.

It is reported that this fire started on the roof of the building, and probably was caused from a passing locomotive.

DAVID SAUNDERSON BURIED IN CUYUNA

Remains Accompanied Through Brainerd by Aged Grandfather of the Deceased

WAS KILLED IN LITTLE FALLS

Machinery in Mixing Plant Caught Him, Severed Body, Death Was Instantaneous

The body of David Saunderson, killed near the cement mixing plant operated by McCree, Moos & Co., at Little Falls, arrived in Brainerd on Thursday afternoon, enroute to Cuyuna for interment. D. G. Saunderson, grandfather of the deceased, accompanied the remains.

Saunderson was 21 years of age, and was accidentally killed when a part of the machinery at the mixing plant caught him and threw him under a moving gravel train, severing his body and killing him instantly.

The remains were held at a Little Falls undertakers for several days, before relatives could be found, the Dispatch aiding in the search with an article in Monday's daily.

Saunderson's father died in Crosby about a year ago, it has been learned, and his mother is married again, now Mrs. Roy Byerly, of Weyburn, Sask., Canada. The grandfather mentioned above, and living at Cuyuna, is the only relative in this section of the country.

The dead man was quite well known in Brainerd, having visited in this city only last week, and making a number of purchases at local stores at that time.

IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Verkennes Case Set for Saturday—Tony Skull Arraigned for Nonport—Two Boys Plead Guilty

In municipal court, John Verkennes, charged with breaking the traffic ordinances, pleaded not guilty and his trial is set for Saturday at 10 a. m. Verkennes furnishes a bond for $50 for his appearance in court.

Tony Skuill was arraigned for nonsupport of his two minor children, the complaint being made by Mary Skull. He was given a hearing and the trial continued until October 20.

The trial of Erick Meyers, charged with assault by John A. Thelin, took place Thursday afternoon. Meyers had pleaded not guilty and asked for a jury trial. The jury, after a twenty minute deliberation brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Clifford Greer and Clifford Bartosh, held for the robbery of the Mayhew hardware store in Ironton, were certified to the juvenile court by the municipal judge on the range, on account of the ages of the boys, both being but 17 years old. The juvenile court in turn certified their case, which is out of its jurisdiction, to the Brainerd municipal court, and the boys were given a hearing and bound over to the grand jury on their plea of not guilty.

Thursday afternoon they changed their plea to guilty, and were sentenced by Judge W. S. McClenahan to the St. Cloud reformatory, where they will be taken Saturday.

DEMPSEY AND THE BRIGHT LIGHTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Sept. 22.—Jack Dempsey's next big fight most probably will be with Harry Wills, his colored challenger.

Wills is the outstanding figure among the contenders for the heavyweight championship and only the race question has prevented him from getting his chance for the title.

In considering what chance Wills has to win the title, the physical condition of the champion is the most important matter.

Ring worms are now asking how Dempsey has been behaving himself since he knocked Carpentier out, what he did in Europe and what he is doing now in the line of dissipation.

It has been said and it has been pointed that Dempsey has been going the way of the bright lights and that he is following the footsteps of former champions who knocked out themselves.

As far as the writer knows, Dempsey has not been misbehaving. In the first place he doesn't look it and dissipation always shows in sagging lines of the face and inflated muscles of the body.

Also it must be considered that Dempsey's reputation makes him a conspicious figure wherever he moves. He hardly could be wild and keep it quiet very long.

A good instance of this fact is shown in the case of a man who holds the same position in baseball that Dempsey has in the ring.

Every move the star baseball player makes around New York in a spicy way is known the next day among the circles that have their ears to the ground for racy stories. No such yarns have been spilled about Dempsey.

Dempsey is seen around caberets frequently in New York. He dances and stays up late. Taxi drivers, the best sources of scandal in the "Roaring Forties," say they have taken him from cabarets to his hotel at three, four and five o'clock in the morning, but that he never showed signs of having anything to drink and that he was seldom in the company of the opposite sex. It will be recalled the comment that went around Europe over the champion's small thirst for wines.

* * * * * * * * *

Jimmy DeForest, who trained Dempsey for all his big fights and who is one of the best authorities on condition in the world, says he does not believe Dempsey is dissipating.

"He never cared much for drinking, he smokes only occasionally and I know that he never was fond of fast living. I have known Dempsey for years, better perhaps than any other person and I do not believe he will fall for any kinds of abuse. His only danger is from inactivity. He has always led such a strenuous life that he blows up when he does not keep himself busy."

* * * * * * * * *

While he may have trouble in training back into the same fine condition of 1919 in Toledo and 1921 in Jersey City, Dempsey will not be bothered with that jinx of other fights—making weight. He can step into the ring at any weight he desires.

Benny Leonard is the most outstanding example today of the weight problem. Many wise ring followers believe that Leonard is through as a lightweight and that he will lost the next time he has to meet a first class opponent at 135 pounds.

* * * * * * * * *

The question is often asked if Leonard can't make the lightweight limit, why doesn't he jump into the welterweight class?

The answer is simple. Leonard is first and last a business man and there isn't a nickle in the welterweight class, compared to what he can get as a slipping lightweight.

At the Lyceum

There is a breezy western comedy drama playing at the Lyceum tonight and Saturday, entitled, "Sandy Burke of Bar V."

Will Rogers at Lyceum Sunday

In "Doubling For Romeo," Goldwyn's latest screen comedy, Will Rogers is cast as an Arizona cowpuncher who goes to Hollywood to learn how love is made in the movies. His adventures as a "double" for the villain will keep you roaring with laugher. The picture is one of the most original comedies ever shown and Will Rogers does the finest work of his career. At the Lyceum Sunday matinee and night.

"The Old Nest" Monday and Tuesday

Rupert Hughes, the most human writer for the screen, has written an unusual ending for "The Old Nest," a Reginald Barker production for Goldwyn of one of his stories, which will be shown at the Lyceum theatre, for two days, commencing Monday.

Says Mr. Hughes at the end of this appealing photoplay: "This has not been much of a picture for plot or action or mystery, but if it should persuade you either to remember your mother piously, if she is dead, or, if she lives, to send her a long love-letter or even a telegram saying 'I am well. I think of you and love you.' Or, above all, go home and see her, then this picture would give more real joy than any other picture ever made."

A TRUE RAT STORY

Auburntown, 6-22-22.
Stearns Electric Paste Co
Dear Sirs: Mr. Robert T. Donnell of Auburntown, came in our store the other day and wanted something to kill rats, so I sold him a box Stearns Rat Paste. And he put some paste on six biscuits that night and the next morning he found fifty-four big rats. And the second night he put out four more biscuits with paste on them, and the second morning he found seventeen more rats, making a total of seventy-one rats in two nights, and there were lots more that he did not find.
This is some big rat tale, but, nevertheless, it is so. Just thought would write to let you know that your rat paste is good.
Respectfully, KENNEDY BROTHERS.

DEMPSEY AND THE BRIGHT LIGHTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Sept. 22.—Jack Dempsey's next big fight most probably will be with Harry Wills, his colored challenger.

Wills is the outstanding figure among the contenders for the heavyweight championship and only the race question has prevented him from getting his chance for the title.

In considering what chance Wills has to win the title, the physical condition of the champion is the most important matter.

Ring worms are now asking how Dempsey has been behaving himself since he knocked Carpentier out, what he did in Europe and what he is doing now in the line of dissipation.

It has been said and it has been pointed that Dempsey has been going the way of the bright lights and that he is following the footsteps of former champions who knocked out themselves.

As far as the writer knows, Dempsey has not been misbehaving. In the first place he doesn't look it and dissipation always shows in sagging lines of the face and inflated muscles of the body.

Also it must be considered that Dempsey's reputation makes him a conspicious figure wherever he moves. He hardly could be wild and keep it quiet very long.

A good instance of this fact is shown in the case of a man who holds the same position in baseball that Dempsey has in the ring.

Every move the star baseball player makes around New York in a spicy way is known the next day among the circles that have their ears to the ground for racy stories. No such yarns have been spilled about Dempsey.

Dempsey is seen around caberets frequently in New York. He dances and stays up late. Taxi drivers, the best sources of scandal in the "Roaring Forties," say they have taken him from cabarets to his hotel at three, four and five o'clock in the morning, but that he never showed signs of having anything to drink and that he was seldom in the company of the opposite sex. It will be recalled the comment that went around Europe over the champion's small thirst for wines.

* * * * * * * * *

Jimmy DeForest, who trained Dempsey for all his big fights and who is one of the best authorities on condition in the world, says he does not believe Dempsey is dissipating.

"He never cared much for drinking, he smokes only occasionally and I know that he never was fond of fast living. I have known Dempsey for years, better perhaps than any other person and I do not believe he will fall for any kinds of abuse. His only danger is from inactivity. He has always led such a strenuous life that he blows up when he does not keep himself busy."

* * * * * * * * *

While he may have trouble in training back into the same fine condition of 1919 in Toledo and 1921 in Jersey City, Dempsey will not be bothered with that jinx of other fights—making weight. He can step into the ring at any weight he desires.

Benny Leonard is the most outstanding example today of the weight problem. Many wise ring followers believe that Leonard is through as a lightweight and that he will lost the next time he has to meet a first class opponent at 135 pounds.

* * * * * * * * *

The question is often asked if Leonard can't make the lightweight limit, why doesn't he jump into the welterweight class?

The answer is simple. Leonard is first and last a business man and there isn't a nickle in the welterweight class, compared to what he can get as a slipping lightweight.

At the Lyceum

There is a breezy western comedy drama playing at the Lyceum tonight and Saturday, entitled, "Sandy Burke of Bar V."

Will Rogers at Lyceum Sunday

In "Doubling For Romeo," Goldwyn's latest screen comedy, Will Rogers is cast as an Arizona cowpuncher who goes to Hollywood to learn how love is made in the movies. His adventures as a "double" for the villain will keep you roaring with laugher. The picture is one of the most original comedies ever shown and Will Rogers does the finest work of his career. At the Lyceum Sunday matinee and night.

"The Old Nest" Monday and Tuesday

Rupert Hughes, the most human writer for the screen, has written an unusual ending for "The Old Nest," a Reginald Barker production for Goldwyn of one of his stories, which will be shown at the Lyceum theatre, for two days, commencing Monday.

Says Mr. Hughes at the end of this appealing photoplay: "This has not been much of a picture for plot or action or mystery, but if it should persuade you either to remember your mother piously, if she is dead, or, if she lives, to send her a long love-letter or even a telegram saying 'I am well. I think of you and love you.' Or, above all, go home and see her, then this picture would give more real joy than any other picture ever made."

INDREHUS IN WRIGHT AND MEEKER COUNTIES

$200,000 IN WHISKY SEIZED ON TUGBOAT

New York, Sept. 22—The odor of liquor wafted from the seagoing tug, Jessica L. M. Kehoe, toward the noses of the crew of the United States revenue cutter Newberry, led to the seizure of the tug, the arrest of its crew of 13 and the confiscation of Scotch and rye whiskey with a bootleg value of almost $200,000.

School Teacher Killed By Golf Stick Blow

Racine, Wis., Sept. 22—Miss Evelyn Calnan, Depere, Wis., a teacher in the Racine public schools, was killed by an accidental blow delivered with a golf stick by Allan Simpson, assistant district attorney. Simpson was showing a stroke to a number of devotees of the game, when Miss Calnan stepped behind him just as he lifted the driver over his shoulder. The club struck the young woman just back of the ear.

EUROPE WILL BUY HEAVILY OF AMERICA

Washington, Sept. 22—A strong European demand for American wheat and other grains are reported in the Agricultural Department from Edward A. Foley, representative of the department in London.

European crops are lighter than previous forecasts, Foley said. With crops improving under better weather, the agricultural department today reported a gain of 1,689 cars in the movement of fruit and vegetables in the week ending September 18.

Potatoes, grapes and peaches showed the greatest gain in carload movement.
